On the appearance of Mrs. J. W. Thomson, Red Cloud, the smoke from any of the surround has been visiting her daughters in ing holes they are also immediately filled up. The fumes remaining in the passages are certain death to the little pests; and if the first attempt does not prove sufficient, it is very easy and cheap to repeat the operation. This machine, if successlul, will so n come into general use through the territory, as these praire dog towns are to be found in every portion, and increse at an alarming rate, and in many scions the matter of exterminating them has become a serious question. They select the best section of grazing lands, and ramification of their anderground dwellings extend over ic large area; they eat the roots which are exposed killing, off the grass.
